Report

Federal Government Satisfaction

July 7, 2025

Methodology

This week, we surveyed Canadians on politics, government performance, and key national issues.

Method

Online survey among respondents 18 years of age or older. (Canadian sample: n= 1,546)

Respondents had the option of completing the survey in French and English and were randomly recruited using LEO's online panel.

Weighting

Results were weighted according to age, gender, mother tongue, region, education and presence of children in the household in order to ensure a representative sample of the Canadian population.

When

Data collection from July 4 to July 6, 2025.

Margin of error

For comparison purposes, a probability sample of this size yields a margin of error no greater than ±2.49%, (19 times out of 20) for the sample.

Significant differences

Data in bold red characters indicate a significantly lower proportion than that of other respondents. Conversely, data in bold green characters indicate a significantly higher proportion than that of other respondents.

Rounded data

The numbers presented have been rounded up. However, the numbers before rounding were used to calculate the sums presented and might therefore not correspond to the manual addition of these numbers.

Key Highlights

Some of the key highlights of our survey…

The Liberals continue to lead in voting intentions

If an election were held today, nearly one in two Canadians (48%) would vote for Mark Carney's Liberal Party, placing it well ahead of the Conservative Party (35%).

Satisfaction with the Carney Government

- A majority of Canadians (55%) say they are satisfied with the Carney government, including 13% who are very satisfied. Satisfaction is highest among those aged 55+ (63%). Approval of Mark Carney's performance as Prime Minister is similar, with 58% approving. Once again, approval is higher among Liberal voters (93%) and those aged 55+ (66%).

Views on Bill C-5 and Infrastructure Decision-Making

- Most Canadians (56%) view Bill C-5 as a good idea, while 25% see it as a bad one. Support is strongest in Manitoba and Saskatchewan (70%), in British Columbia (66%) and among males and respondents aged 55+ (66% for both groups). Liberal voters are the most supportive (72%), while opposition is higher among voters of all other parties (GPC, NDP, BQ and CPC).

- When it comes to who should have the final say on major national projects, 42% believe that federal, provincial, and Indigenous governments should all be required to approve such projects. Only 8% think the federal government should act alone. The collaborative preference is especially strong among NDP (64%), Bloc (63%) and Liberal (46%) voters.

Top Issues for Canadians

- Tariffs and U.S. aggression (20%) remain a top concern for Canadians. Inflation (18%), housing affordability (11%), and the state of the economy (10%) are also among the top cited issues.

Opinions on Bill C-5

Leser

Opinions on Bill C-5 and Its Long-Term Impact on Canada (1/2)

Q4A. Recently the Parliament of Canada passed legislation called Bill C-5. This legislation provides the government of Canada the ability to fast-track approvals for infrastructure projects deemed to be in the "national interest". These could be major undertakings such as, seaport expansion, transportation infrastructures, and energy projects including possible new pipelines.

Critics argue bill C-5 undermines Indigenous rights and environmental protections by granting the federal government broad discretionary powers to approve projects with limited consultation. Supporters of the legislation argue Indigenous consultation requirements and environmental reviews all remain in place, but these will be done in a more efficient manner.

What is your opinion about this new legislation. Do you think it is a good idea or a bad one for Canada in the long run?
